WE NOMINATE

Otis Kline Fulmer, able Princeton architect and partner in the far-reaching firm of Fulmer and Bowers, who is the locomotive force in carrying forward the carefully-projected plans for Princeton Manor House, $5,000,000 community of residential cooperative apartments especially designed for older persons. While Manor House, currently pegged at 364 apartments, offers no easy panacea, it does represent a distinctive, refreshing approach to one of the nation's most pressing domestic problems — a rapidly aging population — and breaks sharply with the unfortunate American tradition of attempting to place elderly citizens in social backwaters during their so-called declining years.

As early as 1946 Fulmer, then headquartered in New York following a year as director of design with the great (if controversial) Norman Bel Geddes, began wrestling with the problem of intelligently planned housing for "retirement living," an area in which basic conceptions had been largely limited to real estate developments and "old folks homes." Major insurance companies, particularly those offering endowment policies as an effective way of "covering those golden later years", seemed to be logical sponsors and to several of them Fulmer suggested the possibility of establishing policies that would yield life income and would also provide attractive residential opportunities. These first thoughts came to naught!

With his former Manhattan-based firm, Churchill, Fulmer Associates, flourishing, and winning recognition for its undertakings in the spheres of urban planning, large-scale housing projects and education, Fulmer continued to probe for the right kind of "shelter environment for older, generally retired persons." By 1956, four years after he had moved to Princeton, he had completed preliminary drawings for what has since been developed into Manor House with its complex of supporting facilities, including a fully-equipped infirmary, central, hotel-like dining arrangements and recreational and social "outlets."

The next step, leading to the creation of a nine-member local Board of Trustees headed by the 56-year old Fulmer, was suggested by the example of the highly successful Willamette View Manor in Portland Oregon. He visited Portland in 1960, made arrangements for "continuing consultation" with Willamette Manor, and last February announced the first such "retirement residence" in the eastern United States. "There is", in Fulmer's words, "no speculation, no government assistance, no mortgage financing and the Trustees are giving their time, experience and effort without charge . . . Our progress is dependent entirely on the reaction of potential residents."

A native of McKeesport, Pa., and a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology and Harvard, Fulmer is one of the few American architects of his vintage who can claim a six-month "apprenticeship" in the Soviet Union, where in 1932 he and his wife survived food shortages and a jolting crossing of Siberia via the Trans-Siberian Railway. During World War II, after he had been associated with the design and administration of the Green Belt community near Washington, D.C., he was National Technical Director for Housing under the Federal Defense Housing Act.

For seeking workable approaches to the conditions presented by our mushrooming above-60 population; for advancing a housing prototype, organized along non-profit and non-denominational lines, that could conceivably appeal to some 20% of the country's senior citizens; for his thoughtful concern for an architect's "social obligations"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

THE PROBLEM IS PEOPLE

Pollution discussed - the continuing problems - required as well as the solutions that seem to be areas where people move in and build houses where neither homes nor people have been before. The problem in the Princeton area this week by the Stony Brook - Millstone Watershed Association and by a Princeton resident who was disturbed by the pollution that seems inevitably to follow the bidders.

On Monday night at the Princeton Country Club, 50 representatives of 13 industries, 12 municipalities, three counties and assorted public and private agencies attended a

AND IT COMES OUT HERE: Pollution is, as a rule, an invisible enemy that can only be detected by the microscope. In parts of Princeton, however, it is visible, palpable and odorous, as it is here where Harry's Brook empties into the Stony Brook. It is also visible in the trash, toys and trash. For additional information about pollution and some views on the subject as set forth by a Princeton resident, see story this page. (Staff Photo) conference on pollution sponsored by the watershed association.

Earlier in the week, Dwight O. North, 80 Randolph Road, well known to the Joint Sewer Operating Committee, the watershed Association and "the Princeton community," has delivered protest against the encroachment of industry upon the brooks and streams of the Princeton area, Harry's Brook in particular. (See picture, this page.)

In outlet of the watershed conference, Robert Shaw, chief engineer for environmental health of the state department of health, traced the sources of Stony Brook pollution from its source in the uplands of Hopewell Township (no sanitary sewers) in Hopewell, Princeton, and Bernards, through Hopewell and Hopewell past Western Electric, with pollution control problems.

Princeton Manor House, with its potential of 60-75,000 extra gallons per day to dump into Harry's Brook, has a sewage Testing Station whose sound disposal plant nevertheless sends a "residual plug" of pollution into the stream. "And these are not such rural areas any more," he commented.

Fury? In response to municipalities and taxpayers who worry about pollution, however, Mr. Shaw said that there was no such thing as "pristine purity," and that it was an impossible goal to strive for. "What we must consider is undue pollution," he explained, "and what what exists, however, it must develop in the future, and we must let it both now and in the future. He suggested that municipal officials learn to look beyond their own boundaries in their attempts to solve problems, and observed that the future might see a master trunk sewer from Princeton to the Millstone." Person To Person

A friend made an observation a bit ago which I think is most appropriate for our countrymen this week. He said, "If ever there could be a full and simple tax on the last paragraph of our Declaration of Independence," which reads:

"And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor."

He said, "Is there any wonder that our country founded on such a creed as this became greatest nation on earth? It visualized an achievement which did not permanently attain, but while our forefathers worked hard for it, their accomplishments often ended in mere ideas."

"The nearer we approach to our goal, the farther the nearer we would be to the perfect state, and it is probably in our country, where men are regimented and educated to a point where no one ordinary person is of any importance at all."

More words cannot do justice to our celebration of Independence on July Fourth, when human reverence may be the most fitting expression.

"Local municipalities must do all they can to patch up the problems that are here right now. The same plan for a Master Plan for the Township, into which these immediate solutions could eventually fit is essential."

"The discussion of trees is an unfortunate affair," Mr. Crooks agrees, "and I am certain that the people involved in Mr. Nixon's campaign. Unfortunately, these problems are not easily solved because the basic problem is people. Natural resources are not the real problem, what we have to do is to get people to move in."

The Watershed official has walked the length of Harry's Brook, and that is just the beginning. In an attempt to see whether flood control is possible, he agrees with Mr. Nixon that it is discouraging to see what has happened to the stream.

Mr. Crooks says that houses which have been standing dry for years have been flooded in the last five years, because building and bulldozers and urbanization have been carried out without regard to what did not exist before.

Stream Capacity. In regard to well fertilized, Carnegie Lake, Mr. Crooks has been reassuring word, spoken by the speakers at the Watersheds conference.

"Streams can assimilate a lot of sewage and purify it as they flow," Mr. Crooks says. "The water that flows into the stream is not necessarily pure, but it will be well treated downstream. So long as we let water flow all the way down a stream and it does not leak, then if an unusual amount of leakage, streams can handle the pollution we hand them."

At addition, he protests the practice of laying sewer in the flood plains of streams across (in both directions).

It is next to impossible, and because "sewage against cross sewers" is really destructive to the esthetic quality of a stream that you prize."

Arthur Brown, Borough engineer, says that the Sewer Operating Committee has recommended that a sewer be laid 100 feet right-of-way along 10 miles of Borough sewer line so that equipment can get through the sewer to maintain the sewer. He says that clearing out is necessary because tree roots grow into sewer pipes and cause leaks.

Both Mr. Brown and Malcolm Crooks, executive director of the Township Board of Education, point out that in the interests of economy, a sewer almost has to run by a stream bed.

READY WITH A BANG

For July Fourth, the first skyrocket will go off at the crack of dusk next Tuesday when the American Legion's annual Fireworks display will begin at Palmer Stadium. The gates will open at 7 p.m., there will be recorded music until 8 and most of the Princeton Community Band until the evening grows dark enough to start the bombs bursting in air.

New social stars have been promised, along with the old standby like pinwheels, grand tables, decorated units and just plain firecrackers. Details of the celebration are in charge.

Nathaniel McKee is general chairman of the event for Princeton Post 76 and the following members are in charge of various departments: Freda tickets and finance; Leo McCloskey, ticket takers; Robert Schmidt, publicity; Eric Jungberg, Alvin, the gunner; Lester Anderson and Peter McCrohan, police; S. G. Davison, lights; George Buccafuso, geometry; H. W. Hiniker, Jr. and James Whittier, colors; Richard Knowles, fire department; Norman Fowler and Leo McCloskey, judges; and Robert Buccafuso, parking. Mr. Fowler, Henry Roberello, and William Haupt, refreshments. Chester Page, amplifier system. Admission is $1 for adults.

Children under 12 will be admitted free.

PLAYGROUND POSTPONED

Township Questions, Plans.

The Township Committee voted on first action in a request for $22,000 to complete the Grove Avenue Playground at its regular meeting Monday night. It questioned the value of adding three tennis and two handball courts to the existing one, which is adjacent to the Shopping Center parking lot.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fallon said he was in agreement, pointing out that a number of tennis courts would be included in the proposed Community Gardens area, and that the more courts there would be unable to have scattering them around the municipality now. He also questioned the amount of use handball court would receive.

In the end, the Committee voted to request the Board of Recreation, requesting that a fuller explanation of the need for the tennis and handball courts be given, seconding a motion from the Board, to spend $20,000 to grade and seven acres of the Community Gardens proposed, following the original plan, as will be acted upon at the July 8 meeting of the Committee.

In other action, the Committee accepted a resignation of Mr. Frothingham as chairman of the Township Planning Board. Mr. Frothingham is moving into the Borough. The Committee did not appoint a successor.

DIFFERENT REACTIONS TO WATER: Some liked the water at the Harrison Street Playground when it opened Monday, others were so sure they enjoyed themselves in the water that little is heard about it. At right is Daniel Rabinow, 8, of Harrison Street. The passive one at the right is John Isom, 2, 228-A Harrison Street. (Staff Photos.)

The Committee also passed the first reading on ordinance to widen sidewalk on the south side of Main Street from Littlebrook School to Littlebrook Road. A public hearing on the project, which is part of the town's master plan, is scheduled for July 8.

Meanwhile, the municipality has appealed a ruling by the State Architect that the house of the manager of the Tenacre Foundation is tax exempt property. Henry M. Stratton is handling the appeal before the appellate division of the Superior Court.

CANDIDATES SPEAK

On Blight, a statement released by the three Republican candidates for office in the Borough express their concern with the planning Board's action on Blight, particularly as pertains to the houses on Green Street.

The candidates, Henry S. Patterson, Jr., who is running for Mayor, and Alan C. Clark and Joseph R. Wood, who are running for Borough Council, take issue with the actual zoning followed by the planning Board, as well as with the decision reached. Their statement in its entirety:

"We have examined a copy of the zoning map prepared by a 4 to 3 vote of the Planning Board. We are greatly concerned."

"When we attended the public hearing of April 11, we heard it clearly stated that the Borough would offer no evidence as to the houses on Green Street, or of the so-called 'Blight Area.' No further Borough evidence was introduced on May 2, when the public hearing was conducted before the planning board.

"Yet the document we have examined is full of statistics as to the houses on Green Street, as well as Jackson Street drawn from a report (filed May 17) by the Borough Superintendent of Buildings and Housing Office.

Who is the Borough Superintendent of Buildings? He is the Borough Engineer, who is the voting Secretary of the Planning Board.

"We have been informed that the Blight Report was prepared by Mr. McHugh, the Borough Engineer, and that chief witness at the hearings Blight. Perhaps, because it was not prepared by a member of the planning board, the name of Blight is so largely placed, and mistakenly so, on the Federal tests for Urban Renewal procedures, instead of the term 'Jaded Blight' area."

The federal requirement is satisfied if a bare fifth of all buildings found substandard (thus two-thirds deficient). These Mr. McHugh has easily been able to suggest as being such things as broken windows, leaky roofs, over crowding of the First Baptist Church and many houses and the danger of fire.

"On the other hand, the New Jersey statute requires a finding of Blight to be based on the fact that 'generally or throughout the area concerned buildings be sub-standard, unsightly and dilapidated to the point of being 'conducive to unwholesome living.' In either words, Jersey's test is far more strict."

"In reading the Blight Report, one discerns that structures are termed, in descending scale, (a) dilapidated — Continued on Page 4

SHAW IS FIRST
In "Summer Series," "Great Catherine," "Bride of the Village Wooing" will raise the summer curtain for the Princeton Players, opening in Princeton Country Day School at 8:30 p.m. next Monday.

Philip Minor will direct the Shaw, and Bertie Fussell, possibly the two best known players in "Village Wooing." In the past, he has directed productions of "Great Catherine," "The Philanderer," "The Philanderer," and "Back to Methuselah" and this fall, he will direct "Misniance" for the Sheridan Square Playhouse.

"Great Catherine" poses some fun all politics, liberalism and the English country gentlemen, describing not only the Great Catherine, but the Catherine who gave birth to Catherine, whose gallantries provide some of the lightest pages in modern history.

In "Village Wooing," Shaw sketches out one of his favorite themes: the woman as problem child.

In addition to Philip Minor, the cast for the two plays will include Bertie Fussell, Paul D'Arme, George Reinhardt and Peter Duncan.

UP-RIVER THEATRE

Lydia Becke's "Ten-der-loin," the recent Broadway musical, stars Alan Mowbray in the Lambertville Music Circus production which runs through Sunday, July 8, at St. John Terrell's musical tent.

Meanwhile, across the river in New Hope, Lydia Becke's "Ten-der-loin" continues to offer a pre-Broadway run of "The Interpreter." Erie Rude and Graham Underhill play the title role, while the play will run on the boardwalk through Saturday, July 8.

Written by a former interpreter, the new play takes place at a 1930 summit meeting between the men who headed the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union. Richard Kiley has the title role, and Fred Clark and Ben Hammer play the two statesmen. Clark, who previously has been as a United States Senator in the Broadway production of "Advise and Consent."

The Becke's "Ten-der-loin" includes other new scripts which it will offer in pre-Broadway productions this summer.

LIGHT INDUSTRY VS. HEAVY TAXES: Dan Tamasi favors letting more light industry locate in Princeton in order to lessen the burden that taxpayers now bear. His comments of those who would oppose this move, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Would you be in favor of, or opposed to, more light industry locating in Princeton?

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. John Bliss, 4 McCord Circle, housewife: I'm in favor of it, but with reservations: So long as they don't interfere with existing industries, I think it's a good idea.

When you say light industry, that's exactly what I mean—in factories, no smokes. We need more manufacturers, and only then I'm in favor of it.

Edward B. Snook, 21 Hawthorne Avenue, bank examiner: I think we have enough light industry right here in Princeton—a small community and I think our facilities are pretty well taxed to the limit for the

Mrs. Miller Baum, 109 Tenth Street, housewife: I'd be opposed. I live in Princeton for a very selfish reason: It's sort of a Shangri-la for me. I've never lived in areas that have been ruined with light industry, was utilized to the limit for the more industry to lower the tax rate and relieve some of the burden the tax payers are bearing. I don't want to believe there will be no end to the tax rate climb in the Township.

Miss Anna Poule, 75 Alexander Street, junior investment counselor: Opposed, because it would be a loss to the town, the standard of living here.

Lawrence Kircher, 21 Stanley Avenue, conference: I'm interested in anything that will cut down on property owners' taxes. It wouldn't matter to me one way or the other if they brought in light industry.

Mrs. James Delano, 729 Prospect Avenue Extension, housewife: As far as I'm concerned, reduce taxes and be an asset to the Township. I'd like to see Princeton retain its small town atmosphere rather than become a large town which it

Michael Balinski, Mansfield mathematician: Opposed. Because I'd like to see Princeton retain its small town atmosphere rather than become a large town which it seems to be rapidly becoming it's too bad.

Mrs. John O. Green, 299 Edge Street, housewife: I'm in favor of it? When do I draw the line? When you allow so much light industry to come in, eventually you will fail. I hate to see a large amount of any kind of industry come to Princeton.

David Palmer, 3 Ober Road, Student at Yale Medical School: I think it's a good idea. All the local merchants are doing well, they're not dying on the vine for lack of trade. We don't like to see more traffic or more crowds. We have enough of those problems already. One of the reasons I moved to Princeton is that it's a small rural town and I'd like to see that change.

Mrs. Edith Wilson, West Windsor Township, housewife: As far as I'm concerned, any kind of pollution or water pollution or dust lead in any way to bad housing. Since it would help reduce the tax burden, I don't mind with the neighbors oppose it. On the other hand, I'm all for the country and I hope to see this area develop.

Richard S. Conner, 34 Greenhouse Drive, Researcher: I would suggest defining this question of light industry and heavy industry and "industry" and to define it in terms of "commercial enterprises" or some similar broad term. Then the people can decide what they want to participate or exclude under commercial enterprises. Peter Pranski, who is the township engineer for East or West Windsor Township, had this written into zoning laws there to eliminate smokestacks and they have been very successful in getting the smoke-free, noise-free, ratable values they want.

HOT AND DRY?

Drinks to Try. Gin and tonic is not the only summer drink. You can cool off with equal success if you experiment with some of the following suggestions from The Pink Elephant, and we don't mean a glass of water.

For example, 1 1/2 Cup, for example while not preternaturally sweet, is still not exceeded the widespread use it deserves. Then, of course, the original gin sling and you serve it with lemon soda and a transparent slice of cucumber rind. Pink E. has it for $4.98 a fifth.

Try your tonic with Campari, an Italian "bitter" which is light (86 proof), dry and tart. It goes well with tonic, soda, too.

For an aperitif, there is Birrino from France (not to be confused with beer) from the bottle, or Pernod or the light dry vermouth from the Savoie.

Tourists with whistful memories of dining in Scandinavia count among their favorite the aquavit bottles from Pink Elephant's shelf. Denmark sends Alalborg and Smeden send Anholt. Sweden sends Gammel Rosbomfjorden, which it is sometimes said that if you can still pronounce it, it's you haven't yet had enough.

Pink Elephant's great contribution to civilization this year is the half-pint cocktail, which at $1.50 you can buy an eight-ounce bottle of vodka sour, extra-dry martini, Manhattan, old-fashioned, sidecar, ginger ale sour, whiskey sour, vodka martini, or daiquiri.

Heublin says it's a good cocktail. We think it's in center, but we may not have calculated the displacement of the olive. Larger bottles (20 cent) are $1.75. Pink Elephant suggests the same savings for the distal traveler, or the host who wants to be able to provide everything.

On the soft side, Pink Elephant has Chocolate Yoo-Hoo in a can for 11 cents, which is good for a quick pick-me-up, people that Heublin forgot.

Our favorite on the Pink E. shelf is No-Cal quinine water. It's 100% water which reduces one calorie at a time. The calories in the gin that you mix with the No-Cal quinine water? Please. Let's not discuss it.

Incidentally, in a week or so, Pink E. will have Dr. Pepper. Lots of people have been asking.

Last time we hunted for ice cubes in the freezer, the water had run. If you consider the expression, because the younger members of the family had taken all the ice-cubes for soft drinks. If you have some in your deep-freeze, we offer a suggestion.

There is a new Igloo Shopping Center. It replaces the one that used to be on Bayard Lane, and it is located in the southeast corner of that Center between the near lower platform, the Acme Market, and University Cleaners.

If you have a car, you can have all the ice you want 24 hours a day. The suggestion is, buy up quantities of ice cubes, put them in your freezer against the unexpected guest or the raiding party of steaming small fry in a hurry to cool off.

We also buy Igloo ice by the block, if such is your pleasure — 24 hours a day.

prints or color snapshots, 12 on a 327 roll, synchronized for flash or flash and film.

Bronwines go on up to $14.30 (Mall's price) for the $17.95 job, and after that, you can get the best in the business known Pony. A special purchase, due at the Shopping Center store soon, will provide you with a $43.95 Pony at $19.95. This 28 mm. camera will produce black and whites or color slides and it has all the usual adjustments. No Brownie, in short.

(You know, any camera that will take color pictures will do a good job of black and white. Just ask the experts at the Photo Center, or the camera people at Igloo.)

On up the scale, we find Agfa's 35 mm. fully automatic camera at $69.95. The "point and shoot" mechanism synchronizes for flash with 2.8 lens. Then, there's the Zeiss Ikon 35 mm. camera with coupled light meter, battery motor so that you don't have to interrupt a scene to wind — Continued on Page 8 that the story is about a brave and resourceful woman by the name of Scarlet O'Hara (Vivien Leigh); love and the Civil War. In the end of the story, the South, having survived through three battles, including one, Rhett Butler (Clark Gable), is overwhelmed by Sherman's forces. All that burned, loses the war and experiences reconstruction. As if this isn't enough, author Marguerite Yourcenar adds the story of the marriage of Montgomery (Olivia de Havilland) and Ashley (Leslie Howard) just before the Civil War.

And, of course the whole production is on a truly monumental scale, color coordinated with the famous buildings of Atlanta. In brief, if you haven't seen it, be curious and have your hours of spare time to watch it. You will feel it has been long enough ago to make another trip worthwhile, now is the time.

THE GARDEN

The Fabulous World of Jules Verne and Biograph the Great (June 29, 30, 31, July 1) is a Princeton scene a relative rarity—double feature. Fortunately, however, it is not fair to good man and one bloodless man is standard fare in many American towns. In this case, both pictures are spectacularly designed and appeal to the younger set and are both relatively short (they each run about two hours). They can be seen together.

Also, both have been produced in Europe by new processes which bear the initials "C.P.C." (Cinematographie-Publicité) and "Circuscope," which is used for "The Fabulous World of Jules Verne." Both are shot with animated cameras and pumped techniques. It produces a definite feeling of depth, but nevertheless it happens a lot more slowly than a film. It also gives a dream-like effect. The second process, "Circuscope," is used for "Biograph the Great." It is much less spectacular and seems designed more to fit subject matter than to describe a cinematic technique.

On the basis of content, "The Fabulous World of Jules Verne" is the better film. It is a science-fictional adventure, although it is not one of Verne's stories. It mixes many of the old-fashioned, well-known, million-dollar plots into a manufactured plot involving the kidnapping of an 18th century scientist by a band of pirates. The future sight is discussed by Hugo Gernsback.

Metal badges were presented to Glen Brown, Arthur Buckland, Glenn Christiansen, John Grimes, John Lander, Corwin Lindstrom, Barclay Rosser, Elliot Starks and James Wallace. John Lindstrom, a 19-year-old Princeton boy, and his senior patrol leader, were cited because they will be leaving the Troop to go away.

Ronald and Peter Tompkins also were given special recognition by the Troop because they are the sons of Princeton Dr. Tompkins. He was presented with a gift in appreciation for his work with the troupe.

WILL BREAK GROUND

For Roosevelt Memorial. Ground-breaking ceremonies for the first memorial in the United States to Franklin D. Roosevelt will be held Saturday at 4 in nearby Roosevelt, a small town of 800 people named for the late president. A committee of 200, which organized the event, will be joined at 2 with a parade through the town to the site of the memorial.

Ben Shahn, artist and long-time Roosevelt resident, suggested the idea for the memorial which includes a five-foot bronze head of the President, a reflecting pool and a semi-circular amphitheatre. The sculptured head of FDR is the work of Mr. Shahn's son, Jonathan.

The memorial has attracted national and international attention. Advertisers in the U.S. President have contributed sums ranging up to $1,000.

Thus far, half of the needed $200,000 has been raised. It is expected that the project will be completed and dedicated this fall.

The town of Roosevelt itself is a living memorial to FDR. It was planned and built by the federal government in the 1930's as an anti-depression measure.

SUMMER HOURS BEGIN

In Lawrenceville. Starting Friday, July 6, the Lawrenceville Community Library will begin its schedule of summer hours, opening at 10 a.m. and closing at 8 p.m. each noon, Tuesday and Thursday in the library room at the Lawrenceville Firehouse on Phillips Street. The library in Lawrence Township are ready to use the library.

Officers of the newly formed Princeton Legionnaires, Mrs. John E. Dell, president; Edwin C. Bleicher, vice-president; Mrs. Harry Kline, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert W. McCullough, corresponding secretary and William McCullough, treasurer. Members of the committee are Jim Hedges, Mr. Edward L. Stover and Donald West.

COACHING CLINICS SET

Program for Teenagers. Four coaching clinics for teenage boys will be offered at Princeton playgrounds this summer. The clinics, which will be held each morning Monday through Friday, will be designed not to interfere with regular playground activities.

Clinics will be given by Larry Iacobelli, coach of the Princeton Park Team; Tom Miller, football fundamentals at the Grover Avenue Playgroup; Bob Sinkel, in soccer and basketball; Verner Johnson and Jack Ryan, in track events at the High School. The remainder of the playground

Closed Wednesdays

DEAR TRAVELEX,

After seeing the places I mentioned last week we'll see St. Paul's Cathedral, Ludgate, Fleet Street (Newspaper Row), The Law Courts and visit Dickens' Old Curiosity Shop. Then we'll have a very special gourmet lunch at the 17th Century old Cheshire Cheese, famous for its literary associations. In the afternoon we'll ram around at will again and that evening have a gourmet dinner at the Elizabethan Room with traditional Old English Food, served in colorful style by costumed waiters.

Tuesday morning we'll depart for Copenhagen and the Hotel Royal.

H-E-Y representatives who participated were Mr. Martin, Bruce Hayes and Neil Houghlin. John W. Vernon and Joe Nyström received awards for distinguished service to youth.

THIS IS WVCG-TV — Princeton's first station, built during the fall of 1955, recalls Martin L. Kaiser of WVCG-TV, 418 High Street. "During my life hasn't really been the same since that time."

The station is full of radio hosts who build their own transmitters and broadcast from their own assigned wavelengths. "There are probably not full of hams who have built their own TV cameras and they actually have their own TV channel, assign'd by the FCC."

Finding Mr. Kaiser is like finding Ed Sullivan. He can only be received on TV stations equipped with the right receiver (WVCG-TV, Channel 14) and usually all he does is to put a test pattern on the air although he has two children in front of the camera, or aim the camera at a nearby tree. He records his programs on magnetic tape or his wife, or his tree — can be seen within a 100-mile radius. The TV camera idea came to Mr. Kaiser after reading an article on the subject in "QST," the official publication of the American Radio Relay League. "I had no money to build my own camera so I read the 'how-to' article, and he began setting aside free time to work on his project.

A technician in RCA in 1952, he joined the RCA staff as a television laboratory technician with RCA and the highly-virtuous of the late 1950's. He was given access to test equipment and a tremendous technical library.

By 1954 Mr. Kaiser had developed his first working model of a TV camera. "It was really a 'clunky circuit,'" he explains, "sent from the camera to a monitor screen next to it, and in over the airways."

Although he had acquired a videocon, the high-speed vid-

HE HAS HIS OWN TV CHANNEL: Martin L. Kaiser of Princeton stands along the Princeton TV camera which he spent 300 hours constructing. Measuring only 12 by 8 by 3 inches, the camera is in the heart of WVCG-TV which can be seen on an UHF just below Channel 14. (Staff Photo.)

take that is the equivalent of 100 TV cameras and 300 hours later he had his present system and brought it to market.

Five basic components make up WVCG-TV: video camera, line amplifier, modulator, transmitter and antenna. The video camera picks up the image and converts it into an electrical image. The line amplifier multiplies the image 10,000 times.

The modulator multiplies the signal and produces the information which is then sent to the transmitter. The transmitter then sends the signal out and from there it is broadcast over the air toward the receiving antenna.

Mr. Kaiser's pickup camera is a relatively small object compared to the cameras of the late 1950's. The video tube is only an inch wide. The camera itself is 12 by 8 by 3 inches. Kaiser has 30 tubes in his system and wound all his own transformers.

"This is a hot air," he says. "I was abandoned in the early '60's when manufacturers started to make transforms." Within the camera, amplitude modulator and so on, are 38 radio tubes.

Turner, Wm., Self — Since Mr. Kaiser estimates that he has spent about $300 on his camera, its commercial value would be about $1000. He notes that he did not encounter any major problems in the construction of his camera and that it is "very time-consuming and definitely detailed work."

"You have to figure out what you have and what you want to do with it," he says. "You just can't go ahead and start filling out what comes in between."

Kaiser's interest in radio began when he was 12. He started at that age to build his own radio sets and, by age 16, he became a licensed ham operator. "WVCG, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.," says his hobbyist call sign, "has made over 10,000 contacts on the air, of whom 2,000 are classified as 'foreign' calls, mainly in the South American country."

"I think it was the experience I had as a ham that led me to the idea of WVCG," says the 26-year-old hobbyist. He has already been granted a patent.

Mr. Edward F. Gray, representative of the canvass, hopes that final returns from the drive plus contributions received by mail appeal to canvassers not covered by the house-to-house canvass will bring the total to the goal of $3000. This is the share of the campaign in the Princeton goal of $8000.

LIVING, ACCORDING TO JULES VERNE: This and other of Jules Verne's many ideas are presented via a new technique known as Mati-Mation in "The Fabulous World of Jules Verne," at the Garden now through Saturday.

Downs, better known for his work on television, in a three-month run.

"Bimbo the Great" is a more run-of-the-mill production. The plot concerns a band of musicians who decide to teach their children how to play the piano. The famous lion tamer (Bimbo) who turns to drink, loses his position and then tries to make a comeback, is intended for adults.

The Big Show (July 6-8) is the second attempt in a week by the management of the Garden to spool to the circus-boiling public with "The Big Show," which preceded it, however. "The Big Show" is one of those big, expensive circus shows featuring no less than Esther Williams, without swimming pools.

The action takes place in a circus and concerns the attempt by the enterprising building head of a family of trapeze artists to expand his operation by adding a new act: acrobatics. His method is to promote a match between his beloved son, Jose (Cliff Robertson), and the piano-taught daughter of the owner of the music store, but Jose is interested in a wealthy American (Mike Nichols) and his young brother moves into the wpa boxer tamer.

Although in this instance the plot is something more than a farce, it is built on a pattern usually found in excuses. The move is to sleep during the romantic interludes and wake up in time to perform those thin wire, trapeze and polar bear acts, which are well presented in Delux color and CinemaScope.

Go Naked in the World (July 1-5) has one very important factor in its favor: it doesn't require a person going to check prostitution with genuine enthusiasm in hopes of attracting a slightly larger audience. Instead, it is a story told in a frank and adult fashion, telling the tale of a cell girl (Gina Lollobrigida), who is rather oddly attracted to her involved in a romance with a man-client (Anthony Franciosa).

The problem is that the guy has not been able to get into the session. Since he is just out of the army (and presumably leaves something there), the woman is not too interested in him. But if it is taken on faith, the rest of the plot follows fairly easily: guy has overbearing father (Cesar Borgnine), father wants son in family business, son more interested in art girls, etc.

Borgnine and Miss Lollobrigida are definitely the film's two greatest assets — Borgnine is a good actor and Miss Lollobrigida because she doesn't seem to be. The adult drama was shot in San Francisco and Acapulco in Metacolor and CinemaScope.

Hinkson's took a short-lived one-game lead, but the percentage of wins from the fifth to coast home, against King's Inn, Ivy Inn broke up the game even earlier with one run in the fourth. Dan Sculeratti's three-run home featured the big inning. The Spotswood topped King's Inn, 10 to 3, in the final game of those played. Joe Fisher threw a two-hitter to win.
